“January 29 – March 19, 2018

With what do we replace the war system (aka the military-industrial-corporate-governmental complex)? What truly makes us secure? What are the moral, social, political, philosophical and pragmatic foundations of an alternative global security system – a system in which peace is pursued by peaceful means? What actions and strategies might we pursue in building this system? War Abolition 201: Building the Alternative Global Security System, explores these questions and more with the goal of engaging students in learning that leads to action. This Month in Nuclear Threat History

History chronicles many instances when humans have been threatened by nuclear weapons. In this article, Jeffrey Mason outlines some of the threats that have taken place in the month of January, including the January 24, 1961 crash of a B-52G Stratofortress bomber carrying two 2.5-megaton Mark 39 thermonuclear bombs near Goldsboro, North Carolina.

Justice

In the Legislature, Rep. Kawasaki “will be holding hearings on the Governor’s proposed $10.4 million increase for the prison system and new Pretrial Services program.

Rep. Kawasaki promises to introduce a bill that would require Internet Service Providers (ISPs) to abide by net neutrality rules while doing business in Alaska. Millions of citizens and business owners have protested the recent Federal Communications Commission decision to revoke net neutrality protections that were put in place in 2015. [This] bill would reinstate those rules in Alaska so that the Internet remains a free and open place for communication and entrepreneurship.”

“Guttenberg pushes for separation in state, federal weed regs. Fairbanks Democratic Rep. David Guttenberg has joined two other Alaska lawmakers in proposing a rewrite of a resolution pertaining to the separation of federal marijuana regulations and the state’s legal pot industry .. People wanting to provide input on what to include in the rewrite of HJR 21 can do so through a Facebook page titled “Alaska’s Voice on Marijuana Policy” created to collect public input on the issue. Guttenberg’s official legislative email address is listed as a contact point for the Facebook page.” Read the rest of the article at newsminer.com 12/9/18.

per Fbks Daily NewsMiner, Alaska
“Legislators who skip training could face ethics complaint.”

from The Council Newsletter (Tanana Chiefs Conference): $50 million of Volkswagen $15 billion pollution fraud settlement “has been set aside for tribal entities in the [US] to use for reducing diesel emissions in tribally owned diesel engines, including diesel generators.”

Sustainability

from erica@northern.org:

“Administration proposes expanded offshore drilling.. the single largest expansion of offshore oil and gas leasing ever proposed by a federal government.. Alaska Governor Walker seems generally supportive of the plan, but the communities who would be most affected by the expansion are speaking out. The Bering Sea Elders Group issued a statement saying that, “The people of the northern Bering Sea rely on the waters off our coast for subsistence and survival and we will not stand by while our way of life is threatened. We will take all legal means necessary to fight offshore drilling in our waters... We, the people of the Bering Sea, are more valuable than drilling.” the Bureau of Ocean Energy Management (BOEM) is accepting comments on DPP and scoping comments for the draft PEIS for 60 days, ending March 9, 2018, through the BOEM website. Public meetings are also occurring across the country, beginning January 16, with only one meeting scheduled per affected state. The sole Alaska meeting is from 6-10 p.m. at the Dena’ina Center in Anchorage on January 23. (see the complete meeting schedule here.)

We will keep in touch about new developments, talking points, and ways to make our voices heard.

Please contact program director Lisa Baraff at lisa@northern.org with questions about the process.

from Veterans For Peace: "35 Peace Groups Demand Congress Protect Public From Nuclear 'Bomb Threat' Trump..."

"Time and time again, Trump has proven just how dangerous it is for him to have thousands of nuclear weapons at his fingertips. He doesn't believe in science and doesn't consult experts," the progressive groups, including Greenpeace USA, Indivisible, Nuclear Age Peace Foundation, Ultraviolet, and Veterans for Peace, write.

"Join the campaign to let people vote in Alaska. The call to action is to convince the Alaska state legislature to pass legislation that would restore the right to vote to individuals with prior felony convictions upon completion of prison sentence, as opposed to the current system, in which the right to vote is withheld until an individual completes all elements of parole and/or probation. Beyond the voter restoration effort, People Power volunteers will also work to educate voters about key developments in Alaska's voting systems relating to vote-by-mail and automatic voter registration..."

"Today, there are thousands of Alaskans who live in the community yet are barred from voting.... Once someone is no longer incarcerated, they should regain their fundamental right to vote. Studies have shown that full reintegration reduces recidivism rates; changing Alaska's laws to allow them to do so will benefit us all.

$1.24 Trillion Nuclear Weapons "Modernization" Price Tag Omits Environmental Cleanup

In its recent cost estimate for the US' 30-year nuclear "modernization" effort, the Congressional Budget Office excluded $541 billion in projected costs to clean up nuclear weapons production sites. The largest of cleanup costs, at $179.5 billion, is attributed to the stabilization and disposal of high-level radioactive wastes generated from the production of plutonium. The U.S. Government Accountability Office informed Congress in 2013 that these wastes are "considered one of the most hazardous substances on earth." R. Alvarez, "CBO Cost Estimation of Nuclear Modernization Omits Hazardous Cleanup," The Washington Spectator, 12-20-17, via Nuclear Age Peace Foundation.

"More Hanford Workers Possibly Exposed to Plutonium

"On December 13, the government contractor CH2M Hill stopped demolition work at the Plutonium Finishing Plant at the Hanford Site in Washington State. Monitors worn by employees revealed high levels of radiation exposure. Testing showed radioactive isotopes of plutonium and americium.

"A few months earlier, on June 8, a release of radioactive particles led to at least 31 workers ingesting or inhaling radioactive particles."

S. Frame, "More Hanford Workers Possibly Contaminated with Plutonium," 12-14-17, via Nuclear Age Peace Foundation.

TEDx Talk: The Insanity of Nuclear Deterrence

When nuclear-armed nations face off, the threat of mutually assured destruction is expected to keep the worst from happening. But is this a rational strategy? Or is it one that is doomed to failure? In this eye-opening and powerful talk, Commander Robert Green shares his experience piloting nuclear-armed aircraft and his shift to becoming a staunch opponent of nuclear deterrence.
