Thursday June 6	4:30-7 pm Public Meeting	Public Comment to be taken in Fbks on Plans for Expanded AirSpace Restrictions around Clear AFB "Military seeks to further restrict airspace around Clear Air Force Station..." Alaska pilots are scrambling to learn about the changes and figure out how it would affect them ahead of public meetings on the proposal planned this week in	Carlson Center Prow Room in Fairbanks

		Anchorage, Anderson and Fairbanks... At Clear, the larger restricted airspace is needed to protect aircraft equipment and people from the high-intensity radiated field generated by the new radar, the Missile Defense Agency stated. “Because the new airspace restrictions are significantly different than originally planned, the agency is restarting the Environmental Impact Statement review process... At the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association, George said he can think of several potential aviation issues with the expanded airspace restrictions... ‘The City of Anderson is very worried about this change. By closing the south end of the runway it will just about put the Clear airport out of service for med[e]vacs,’ [per] the city government of Anderson, the community next to Clear... “[A] larger restricted air space may also hamper visual flight rules for pilots traveling between Anchorage and Fairbanks. When clouds are low, Windy Pass and the Nenana Canyon are the main way through the Alaska Range between Fairbanks and Anchorage for these noninstrument-rated pilots. The largest restricted area would cross the Parks Highway and the Nenana River, restricting this route, [Tom George of the Aircraft Owners and Pilots Association] said. “Finally, George said the flight restrictions may affect higher-flying aircraft. The most restrictive of the Missile Defense Agency proposals would increase the top part of the restricted airspace from 8,000 feet to 32,000 feet, the altitude that jets cruise at... “For more information, see the Missile Defense Agency slideshow presentation at bit.ly/2Z745Wh.” Read the article by Sam Freidman with accompanying maps and graphics in Fairbanks Daily News-Miner, June 2, 2019. ---- To read of concerns over prior expansions in recent years, see https://www.alaskapublic.org/.../moose-hunters-ried-over-new-restrictions-on-military...Aug. 16, 2018 from info@winwithoutwar.org: “Trump’s trying to ram through arms sales to Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates. And he’s doing it by claiming rarely-used emergency powers — justified by the fake emergency his administration is currently manufacturing: war with Iran. [1] We cannot allow this to happen.

In order to make Congress ban the $8 billion arms sales, we’ve got to act fast — so it’s time to sound the alarm, now.

Tell Congress to ban Saudi and Emirati arms sale now! War is the real emergency.”

CodePINK added May 30: “The Saudis just killed 12 Yemeni civilians, including 7 children, and now the Trump administration wants to sell them more weapons... Saudi Arabia already spends more per capita on weapons than any country and we see how they use them to kill innocent children...

Tell Congress to ban weapon sales to Saudi Arabia in the 2020 National Defense Authorization Act.”

from AkPIRG: “In 2017, FCC Chairman Ajit Pai repealed net neutrality rules that stopped Internet service providers like GCI from blocking, throttling, and charging users expensive new fees. The repeal only serves Big Cable’s interests and hurt Alaskans by exacerbating the challenges that residents, users, and small businesses face to get online--not to mention livesaving telemedicine and telehealth services that might be restricted.

Right now the Save the Net Act (S. 682) is our chance to restore net neutrality and help Alaskans get access to faster, cheaper, and reliable internet. A lot of it depends on Senator Murkowski, who voted to restore net neutrality in 2018 but hasn’t said a word about S.682 this year.

Critically, this net neutrality bill would also help bring faster, cheaper Internet access to more people in Alaska. Not only does S.682 prevent ISPs from slowing your Internet connection to justify charging you more money, it will also help build new networks in communities that don’t have good access... Ask Sen.Murkowski to support the Save the Internet Act as soon as possible.”

“Blood Batteries – Cobalt And The Congo: Cobalt is a grey metal that is essential to our new technological world. It is a preferred component in lithium-ion batteries that power laptops, cell phones, and electric vehicles. These exploding applications are causing the use of Co to skyrocket. Vivienne Walt and Sebastian Meyer wrote a piercing analysis in Fortune on the conditions surrounding Co supply from the world’s largest supplier of the metal, the Democratic Republic of Congo. The reason this is so important is that many of the people who support the new energy technological revolution of non-fossil fuels, renewables and new nuclear SMRs, electric vehicles, conservation and efficiency, also care about the social issues that many of these technologies incorporate in their wake – corruption, environmental pollution, extreme poverty and child labor. And the supply of Co is the perfect intersection of these two issues.” Read the principia-scientific.org article. from Northern Alaska Environmental Center: “Green New Deal Teach-in Recording Now Available! Thanks especially to one of the event organizers, Professor Susan Todd, the recording of our Earth Week Teach-in on the Green New Deal is available online.” from Women’s International League for Peace and Freedom “Climate Justice+Women+Peace Project

How Are Climate Justice, Women and Peace Interconnected? ... The corporate capitalist system that prioritizes profits/money over people and the planet results in environmental degradation and ecological collapse, and creates resource conflicts, water and food shortages, and extreme weather events – all of which lead to human rights abuses and refugee crises. Trade Agreements are now the tool transnational corporations use to challenge and erode national sovereignty, democracy and community rights. The new trifecta of trade agreements – the Trans Pacific Partnership (TTP), Transatlantic Trade and Investment Agreement (TTIP) and the Trade in Services Agreement (TiSA) - are really the next stage in global corporate rule by “free” trade agreement under which we all lose.

Because War is So Profitable... Global warming and climate change are also being fueled by an economy that depends on military solutions to conflicts, instead of non-violent conflict resolution and peace negotiations. On-going violence and conflict increases profits for the military-industrial corporate complex. At the same time, the need for raw materials increases and perpetuates the cycle of resource conflict, environmental destruction and local food and water insecurity that creates the conditions leading to refugee flight. The military is one of the highest CO2 emitters, but their emissions are generally not included in global CO2 estimates.

Additionally, carbon pollution from international shipping and flights is not counted as greenhouse gas emissions in the COP 21 Paris Climate Agreement.

This WILPF US CLIMATE JUSTICE+WOMEN+PEACE project provides tools needed for educating organizing and for building the ‘movement of movements’ by networking and uniting allies.”

from Ed : “Amalgam Fillings, Mercury Poisoning, and EMF: □ Journal of Biomedical Physics and Engineering: Maternal exposure to EMF in mothers with dental amalgam fillings may cause elevated levels of mercury and trigger an increase in autism rates.

- Journal of Biomedical Physics and Engineering: Mercury released from dental amalgam fillings is significantly accelerated by exposure to cell phone RF-EMFs and MRI. The RF EMF resonates in the tiny spaces between teeth, producing “hot spots” with rapidly expanding gas bubbles that accelerate amalgam microleakage.
- Pakistan Journal of Biological Sciences: MRI and microwave radiation emitted from mobile phones significantly release mercury from dental amalgam restoration.”

Senator Murkowski wrote an opinion piece in the 4-20-19 Peninsula Clarion that ends, “Many Alaskans I have spoken to have never fully considered the possibility of nuclear power in our state. It’s easy to understand why, but advanced reactors have now made that prospect increasingly real. In the near future, Alaska could become a proving ground for these new technologies — with a whole host of benefits to show for the effort.”

Audio & Songs broadcast with this week's Community News and Opportunities:

-- Hello this is Rob Mulford the Asymmetric Moose with the Asymmetric Music Picks for the week of June 2, 2019. This Saturday's celebration of the Alaska Peace Center's 7th annual Peace Feast was a great success in that it brought together over a dozen bright, energetic, and thoughtful individuals and organizations who shared their vision, hard work, and commitment to our community, healing and making life better for a fractured humanity and endangered planet. We will be covering all those who spoke in the coming weeks. Today's choice is timely in that it involves an important court hearing, Juliana v. U.S., happening this coming Tuesday. I'll let Heather and Sharon Baring, mother of Nathan Baring, one of the co-litigants explain.

I've spent my whole lifetime in a crazy race
Where I'm bound, I can hardly tell

Everyday I'm running at a faster pace
Where I'm bound, I can hardly tell

Four hundred years to make a patchwork land
All the way from sea to shining sea

That's but a moment in an ancient plan
And it won't be long there'll be nothing left to see

And the children of our children
Will wonder what happened to our minds

How will we tell them that the money
Was worth more at the time

Robin Dale Ford, hands-down my all time favorite banjo picker, sings Where I'm Bound.
